CHINESE FLOCK TO CITY.

Celestials Add 100 Per Cent to Former Price of Clean Linen -Both Sides Talk of Difficulty.

EMPUBLIC SPECIAL Chicago, Ill., May 6.-Chinese are taking advantage of the laundry strike in Chicago and improving the golden opportunity to engage in the business.

They are arriving nere at the rate of ten a day, coming direct from Hip Lung, the "king of Chinatown" in San Francisco, and reporting to Sam Lee to be distributed by him among the twenty-seven laundries that he controls. The old scale of prices that has been in force for many years has been entirely abrogated by the washerman with the queue.

With a smile that is childlike and bland, be now says to customers: "Shirtee, 10 cent; colle, 3; no like pricee, take him way," well knowing that he will get the hing CHINESE PICK WORK. Table cloths, napkins, sheets and pillow slips, that are technically known as "flat by the laundrymen, are not taken by the Chinese at all, even during the presen crisis, because normally they cannot compete with the price of 1 cent apiece charged by the steam laundries, and now the Celestials cannot take care of the wearing ap-

But the snave Chinese does not tell his customer that, he calmly takes every bundle brought to him, and as cannly places it upon the shelf to be washed it is to be hoped some time within the next few weeks.

Hotels and restaurants have managed to get their most urgent needs filled by outof-town laundries, but they are still far from being in a comfortable position. Yesterday watters in nearly all of the large downlown restaurants appeared in back lackets and low-cut vests, instead of the spotless or more recently very much spotted white garments furnished by the house, BARBERS RAISE PRICES.

BARBERS RAISE PRICES.

And the poor barber is the saddest of them ail. At the 19-cent shaving shops the price has been raised to 15 cents in a vain endeavor to keep even with the increased cost of laundering towels, and the higher-priced shops insizt that they, too, will have to advance the price to-morrow unless the strike is settled. Barbers have been paying 25 cents a hundred for their towels, and with the commissions which most of them get as agents for the laundries there is a material reduction even on that low price. One man said yesterday that he had to pay a washerwomen $1 a hundred, and that even then his towels were not ironed. There was a manifest feeling on the part of both the strikers and the laundry owners yesterday that the strike or lockout has continued long enough, and both sides seemed to be looking for some way of bringing about a settlement without compromising themselves. Neither side wants to make the first move, but each is willing to receive amicably the first advances from the other. President Wilson of the Laundry Workers' Linan insists that at least the first clause of the agreement submitted to the owners be cubscribed to, which is that none but union labor shall be employed.

STRIKERS DISCUSS SETTLEMENT.

STRIKERS DISCUSS SETTLEMENT. "Settle and return to work?" queried one of the strikers. "I guess not. We are having the time of our lives."
"Settle and open our plants?" asked one of the laundrymen." We will when the strikers come to us and ask for arbitration."

strikers come to us and ask for about tion."

Neither party made an effort to adjust the trouble. Instead both took measures to continue the fight, each asserting that the suffering public favors its contention. The laundrymen have succeeded in making the famine a certainty by getting the supply houses to refuse goods to the establishments that are running. The workers have done equally well by forcing over five-sixths of the nonunion employes into their organization.

LOSS OF LINEN FEARED.

Coupled with the loss that has followed the stopping of business, the proprietors are facing the destruction of over 189,000 worth of linen by mildew. Some of the firms have set a dozen men at work turning over the goods that are in the water, yet fear they will be ruined. The same is being done by some of the restaurants, where the danger is greater, as the goods are drity.

Several of the laundrymen agreed to start up to-day and get out the goods that are "in soak." If they are not able to get help they will do the work themselves, dispense with the ironing and send the linen out rough dry. In this they will not be interrupted by the union, which is not anxious to antagonize the public.

The laundry supply dealers of the city

The laundry supply dealers of the city took a hand in the trouble in the afternoon at a meeting of the proprietors at the Briggs House. They agreed not to fill orders before an adjustment of the trouble is made.

made.

The laundrymen were a unit against accepting the demands of the men when it was informally proposed, yet no method of bringing their committee and one from the union together was suggested. The committee of five that has the strike in charge says it is "up to the workers" to open peace negotiations. The proprietors are ready to arbitrate, but are not willing to make the first move.

MAKING SUNSHINE.

It Is Often Found in Pure Food.

The improper selection of food drives many a healthy person into the depths of despairing illness. Indeed, most sickness comes from the wrong food, and Just so surely as that is the case right food will make the sun shine once more.

An old veteran of Newburyport, Mass, says: "In October, 1900, I was taken sick and went to bed losing 47 pounds in about 60 days. I had doctor after doctor, but all food hurt me so I had to almost live on magnesia and soda. All solid food distressed me so water would run out of my mouth in little streams.

"I had terrible night sweats and my doctor finally sail I had consumption and must die. My good wife gave up all hops. We were at Old Orchard, Me., at that time, and my wife saw some Grape-Nuts in a grocery there. She bought some and persuaded me to try it. I had no faith in it, but took it to please her. To my surprise, it did not distress me as all other food had done, and before I had taken the fifth package I was well on the mend.

"The pains left my head; my mind became clearer; I gained weight rapidly. I went back to my work again, and now, after six weeks' use of the food, I am better and stronger than ever before in my life. Grape-Nuts surely saved my life and made me a strong, hearty man, 15 pounds heavier than before I was taken sick.

"Both my good wife and I are willing to make affavit to the truth of this." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

The Carondelet Electric Light Company applied to the St. Louis County Court yesterday for a franchise to string wires along certain portions of the Lemay Ferry road, south of St. Louis. In Carondelet Township, The application was laid over until Monday. If the franchise is granted it will insure lighting facilities for every section of St. Louis County except Meramec Township, and farmers can gather their vegetables and cultivate their crops by electric light, the same as their customers in St. Louis do other work after the close of day.

The West St. Louis Construction Company has a lighting franchise that covers the whole county, but the work of construction is being confined to Bonhomme, Central and St. Ferdinand townships, north and west of St. Louis. The same company has a water franchise and expects to turn on water from the Missouri River by June 1. The lighting plant will be finished shortly afterwards.

The King Electric Light and Power Company is already furnishing De Hödiamont, Clayton and Ferguson with light, and recently obtained a franchise to extend its wires into St. Ferdinand Township, north of St. Louis. John M. Nelson has a franchise to light Wellston and the adjacent country on the St. Charles Rock road.

If the franchise applied for yesterday is granted, it will have the effect of putting electric lights in every township in St. Louis Control but one, Meramec, which is in the extreme southwestern part of the county. late hour last night and registered at the Southern. "PRESERVE THE CANYON."

Speaking of the Grand Canyon the President said he believed it was absolutely unparalized in the first of the world. "I want to ask you to do one thing in connection with it," he said. "In your own interest and in the interest of all the country, keep this wonder of nature as it now is. I hope you wont have a toulding of any kind to mar the wonderful grandeur and the sublimity of the canyon. You cannot improve upon it. The ages have been at work on it and man can only mar it. Keep it for your children and your children self-diden and all who come after you as one of the great sights for Americans to see."

The resident also extended a word of greeting to the Indians, a number of whom were in the crowd.

Some of them were in my regiment," he said. "They were good enough to fight and die, and they are good enough for me to treat as squarery as any white man. There are a great many problems in connection with them. You have got to save them from corruption, from brutality, and I regret to say, at times we have to save them from certain Eastern philanthropy."

At the conclusion of his remarks the President presented the diplemas, shook hands with those whom he addressed, and then, with Governor Brodle, President Butler of Columbia College and Doctor Rivey, he rode out to a milers' camp, about iff teen miles from here, where he had lunched. leke for the first time this season. With the exception of the January corner in 1901, this price represents the highest figure reached in a great many years.

The advance to-day resulted from scattered buying, mainly on the part of the commission-houses, whose customers bought in the cotton sold at a considerably lower level. Actual transactions in the option were light, though there were many rumors concerning the identity of the interest believed to be still outstanding in this future.

According to some of the best-informed traders on the floor, a large block of cotton, estimated as high as 50,00 bales, has not been covered. The cotton was sold some time ago by Wall street people, who regarded the price of cotton as too high. The price was then about a cent or a cent and a half lower than the present level, and the loss at current quotations runs into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The sellers of this cotton have been hoping for a smash in the market or some untoward development that would loosen the grasp of the New England crowd now controlling and manipulating May cotton in this city. But as the month wears on the price continues to advance, and difficulties in the way of covering short obligations have apparently increased.

In addition to the Wall street short interest, the recent reimportation of American cotton from Liverpool is taken as an indication that foreign dealers are short in this market. The short selling for foreign account has not been as extensive as usual in this market, many selling in New Orleans in preference. This morning July cotton in New Orleans sold up to 19.85c and the shorts appear to be in as much trouble in the Southern as in the local market. There is reported to be a built clique in the Southern market, engaged in driving in the short interests in July cotton, and that option sold 89 points, or 4 a bale, over the price of the same delivery in New York. With manipulation in both markets owing to the scarcity of good cotton, traders are kept in a condition of great e

TENANTS HAVE THEIR RIGHTS. Improvement League Discusses Question of Flower Culture.

The planting of vines and flowers on rented property as well as property owned by tenants is being strongly advocated by the Civic Improvement League. Serious complications arose last year with regard to this matter. In one instance, a tenant wrote to the League that he had planted flowers on the property he occupied and that the landlord had pulled them up.

On account of this and many similar incidents attorneys for the Civic Improvement League studied the legal phase of the question, with the result that they have rendered an opinion, holding that property tenants have the right to cultivate flowers, shrubbery and other species of vegetable life on the property occupied, regardless of any adverse stand on the part of the land owner.

charging him with attempting to extort money from him for serving a writ in a replevin suit, is in a peculiar position in regard to the suit, according to the statement of the officers of Justice Spaulding's court.

The suit was against C. E. Johnson and his wife of No. 4705A Cook avenue. The Johnsons entered into an agreement to sell their furniture to Doctor Carley for 1150 in the event that they decided to break up housekeeping, which they were contemplating, Doctor Carley paid $5 and was to pay the remainder March 15. This occurred on Sunday, and Doctor Carley did not call until the next day. The Johnsons claimed it was too late and refused to give up the furniture.

Doctor Carley brought a replevin suit in Justice Spaulding's court and obtained possession of the furniture without paying the balance of the meney, it is stated. When the case was tried Doctor Carley lost, Judgment was given in favor of the Johnsons for possession of the household goods or $400, the value placed upon them by Doctor Carley.

Constable Michael Kinney said yesterday that the time for appealing the case expired without Doctor Carley taking an appeal. The Johnsons, he said, are undecided whether to take the goods or claim the $400 on the bond given by Doctor Carley.

Change in food and drink will sometimes make over even elderly people and restore them to natural health.

A man of 70 writes that at the age of 60 he began to break down and was a partial invalid until 67, when he concluded that coffee was one of the prime causes of his sickness and began using Postum Food Coffee in its place with Grape-Nuts Breakfast food and some fruit at his meals.

He says: "Now, at the age of 70, I am as strong and hearty as I was at 50. I would not go back to my old mode of living for a hundred thousand dollars." This man was a pioneer in Illinois in 1837, later on was an early settler in North Dakota. He requests that his name shall not appear in print. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.
